

James Brice

CEO at EBS

James Brice is currently CEO of EBS – a risk and management consultancy to South African industry and business – where he specialises in the following: Green Investment Strategies and Green Branding; Environmental and Social Due Diligence studies; Operational and Risk Mitigation Strategies; and Environmental and Social Management Systems design and implementation.

James is a leading risk consultant to the Private Equity and Financial Services Industry of South Africa, and is the appointed broker and/or dedicated strategic ESG (Environmental, Social, and Governance) advisor for over 45 funds, asset managers, hedge funds and/or banks, and is the appointed ESG expert for three international mining consultancies for Africa.

James has implemented Environmental and Social Management Systems (ESMS) for 10 Private Equity General Partners; has conducted and/or directed over 50 Environmental Impact Assessment authorisations, 80 Environmental and Legal Compliance audits, and over 200 site assessments and Environmental and Social Due Diligence studies in accordance with IFC Performance Standards and Equator Principles. James' experience spans a wide variety of business sectors and regions, including South Africa, Norway, Australia, United Kingdom, Holland, Turkey, and India, as well as 23 African countries.

In addition, James is an ISO 14001 environmental auditor, and has implemented ISO 14001 Environmental Management Systems and Integrated Management Systems (i.e. ISO 14001, OHSAS 18001, ISO 9001, ISO 26001) for over 25 international industrial and mining clients, including Vodacom, Omnia, Protea Chemicals, Anglo Coal, Samancor, ARM, Mondi, L'Oreal, Canon, Airports Company, ATE and Thermopower. He has served as a technical and process expert for numerous clients including Anglo American, X-Strata, Dow, BHP Billiton, ArcelorMittal, Investec, ABSA, Nedbank, Sasol, PPC, Impala Platinum, Rand Water and Shell.